January 2021

Language Learning through Culture and Cooking (LLCC)

Working updates

In January 2021, without the possibility of doing our LLCC C1 training face-to-face with participants from the UK, Spain, Lithuania, Greece, Austria and Romania, we adapted it to an online training event. This always carries some technical difficulties, as well as the usual introversion this entails. However, we overcame these difficulties using many interactive methods, such as icebreakers, smaller discussion groups and, most important, online tools that facilitated participation in a fun and engaging way.

Partners introduced different interactive online tools to support the delivery of the pilot and engage participants, even in the case of a possible online delivery. Participants also went through the materials together to make sure they were useful for the trainers. The consortium successfully brought the trainer community together, welcoming feedback to improve the course modules and making sure that the next step, delivering the course to the target group will be effective.

“No one who cooks, cooks alone. Even at her most solitary, a cook in the kitchen is surrounded by generations of cooks past, the advice and menus of cook present, the wisdom of cookbook writers”

Laurie Colwin

What's next?

Train the trainers

Partners are already prepared to start the piloting sessions, where they will train the trainers. They will introduce them to the materials developed by the partnership to support their activities, working with a clear purpose: to help migrants learn the language of their host countries through their food and culture.

What is it all about?

Our project in a nutshell:

- We have tested our new training materials for intercultural awareness, language learning through culture and cooking.
- The trainers explored the two manuals which have been written to support the training materials, and helped to develop the Healthy Eating Handbook.
- We have prepared for the possible Covid-related situations in which we may have to deliver the project online.
- We have tried our Online Resource Toolbox of Lessons, Materials, Guidance and Handbooks including also interactive videos and exercises.
